

PWA

I started with a simple color picker web app that looked like this. →

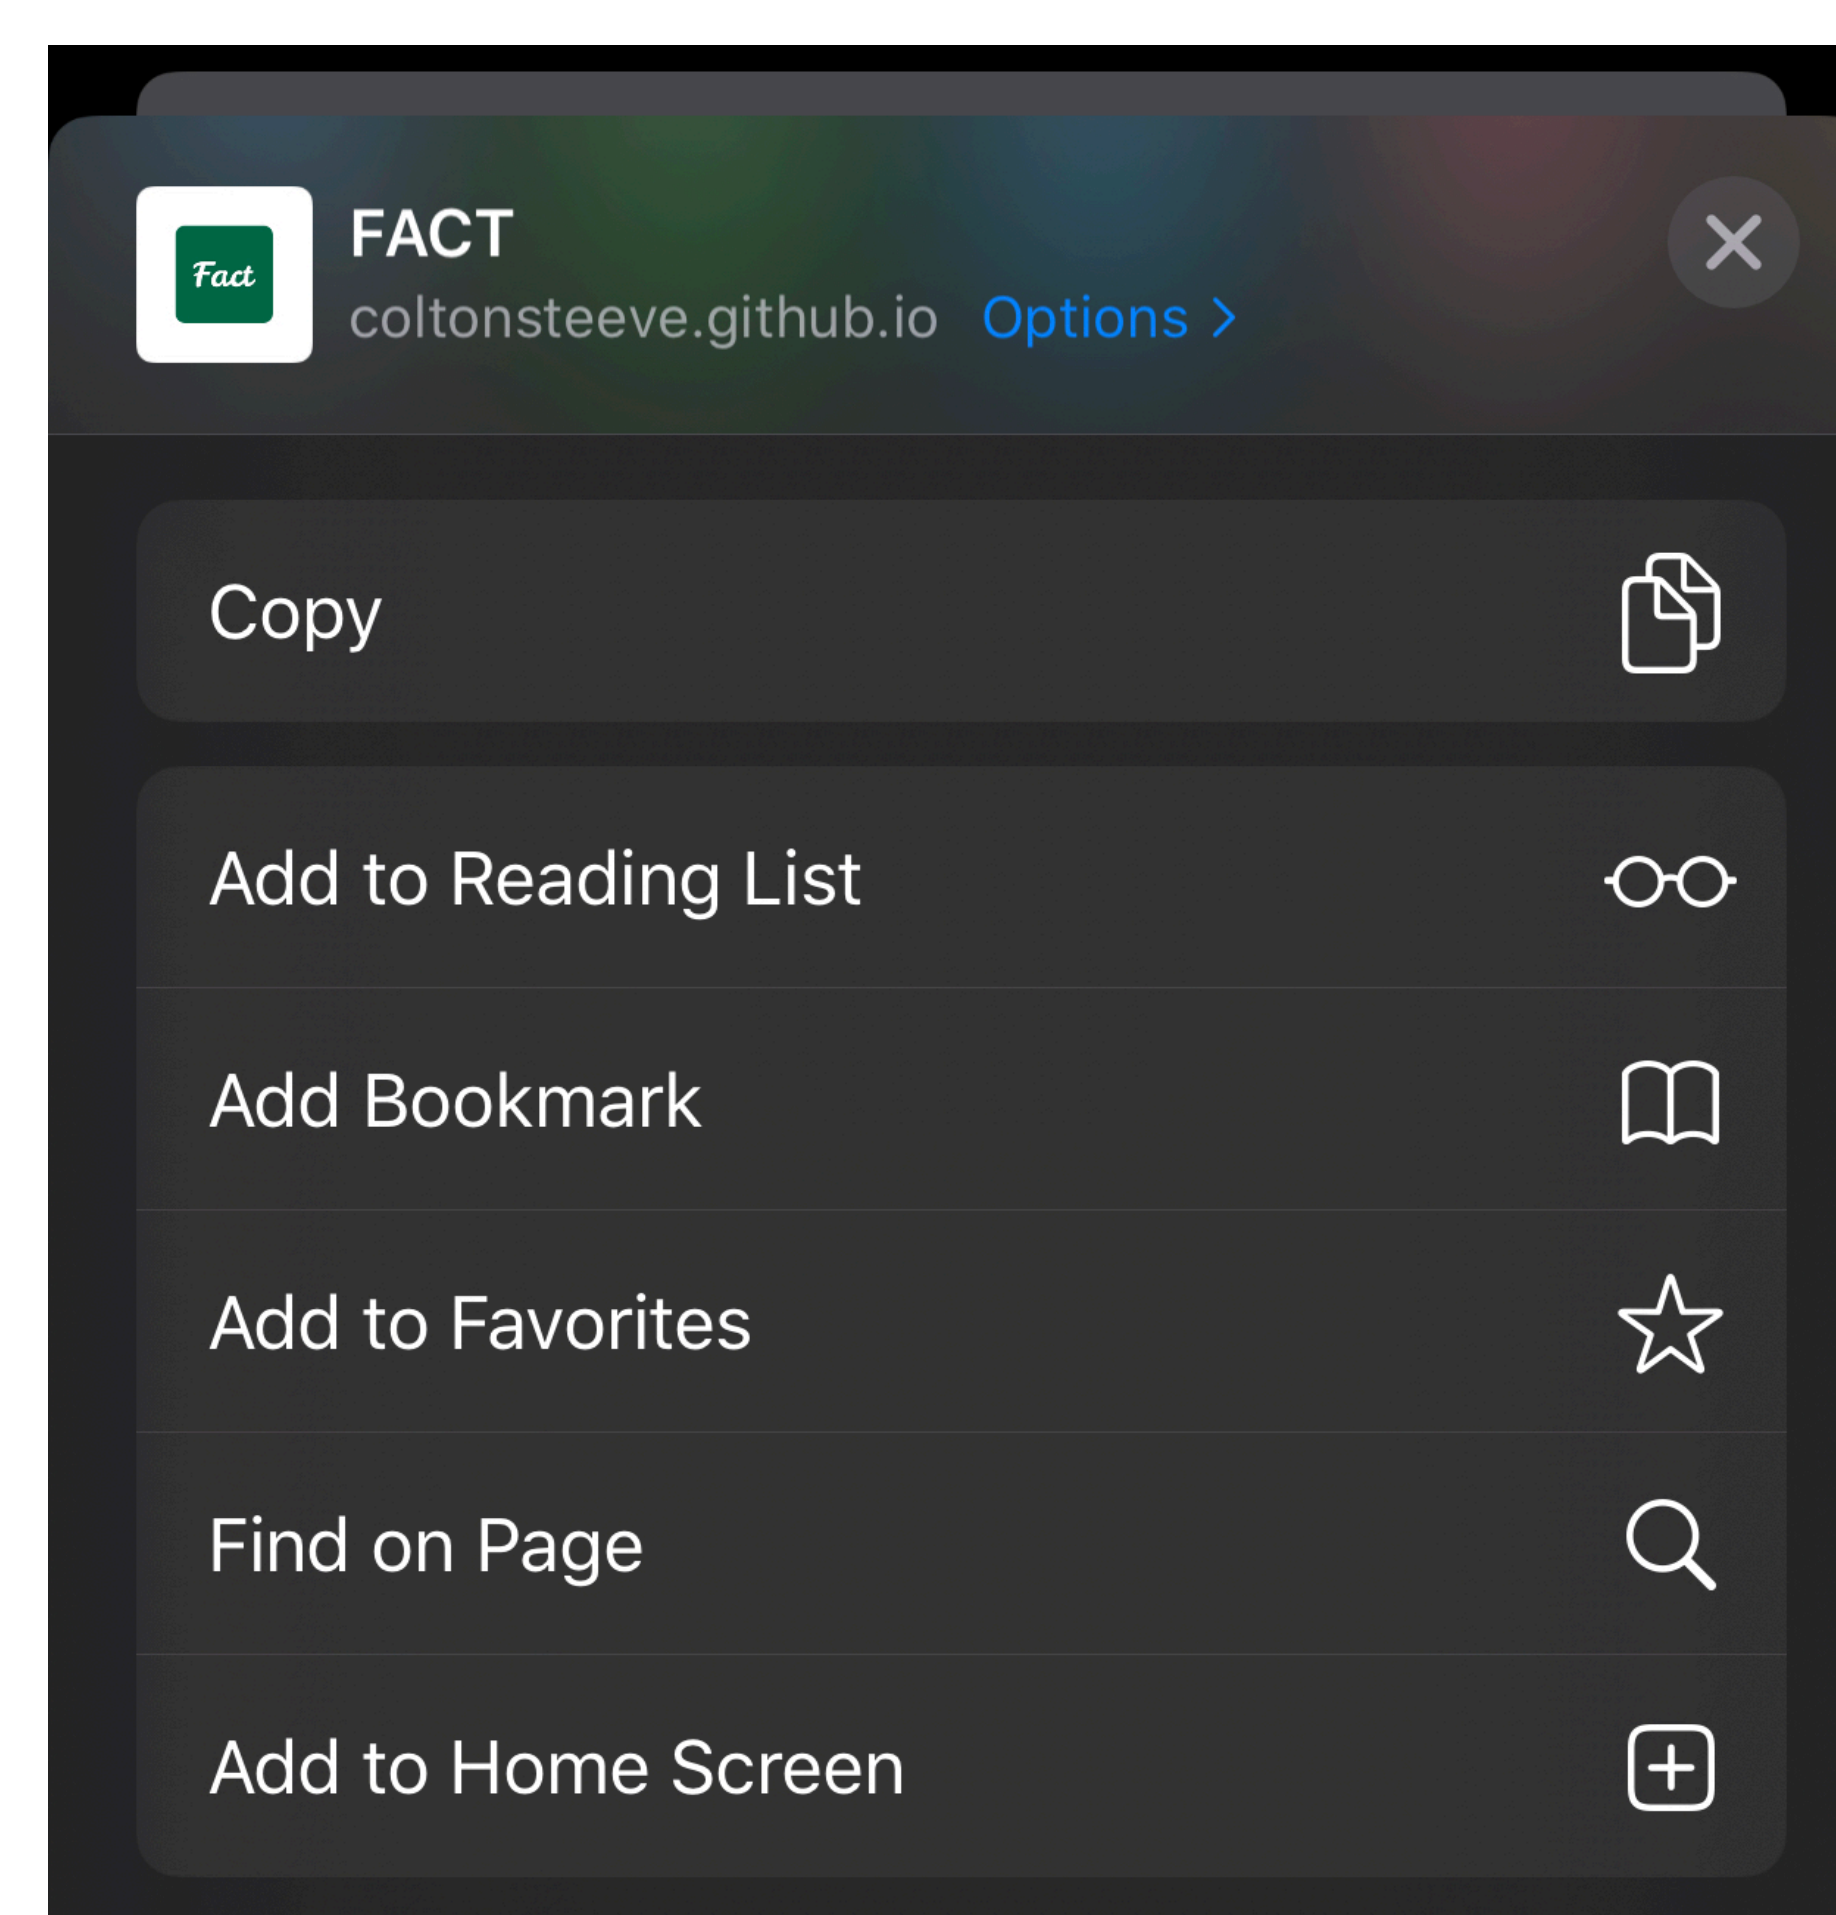

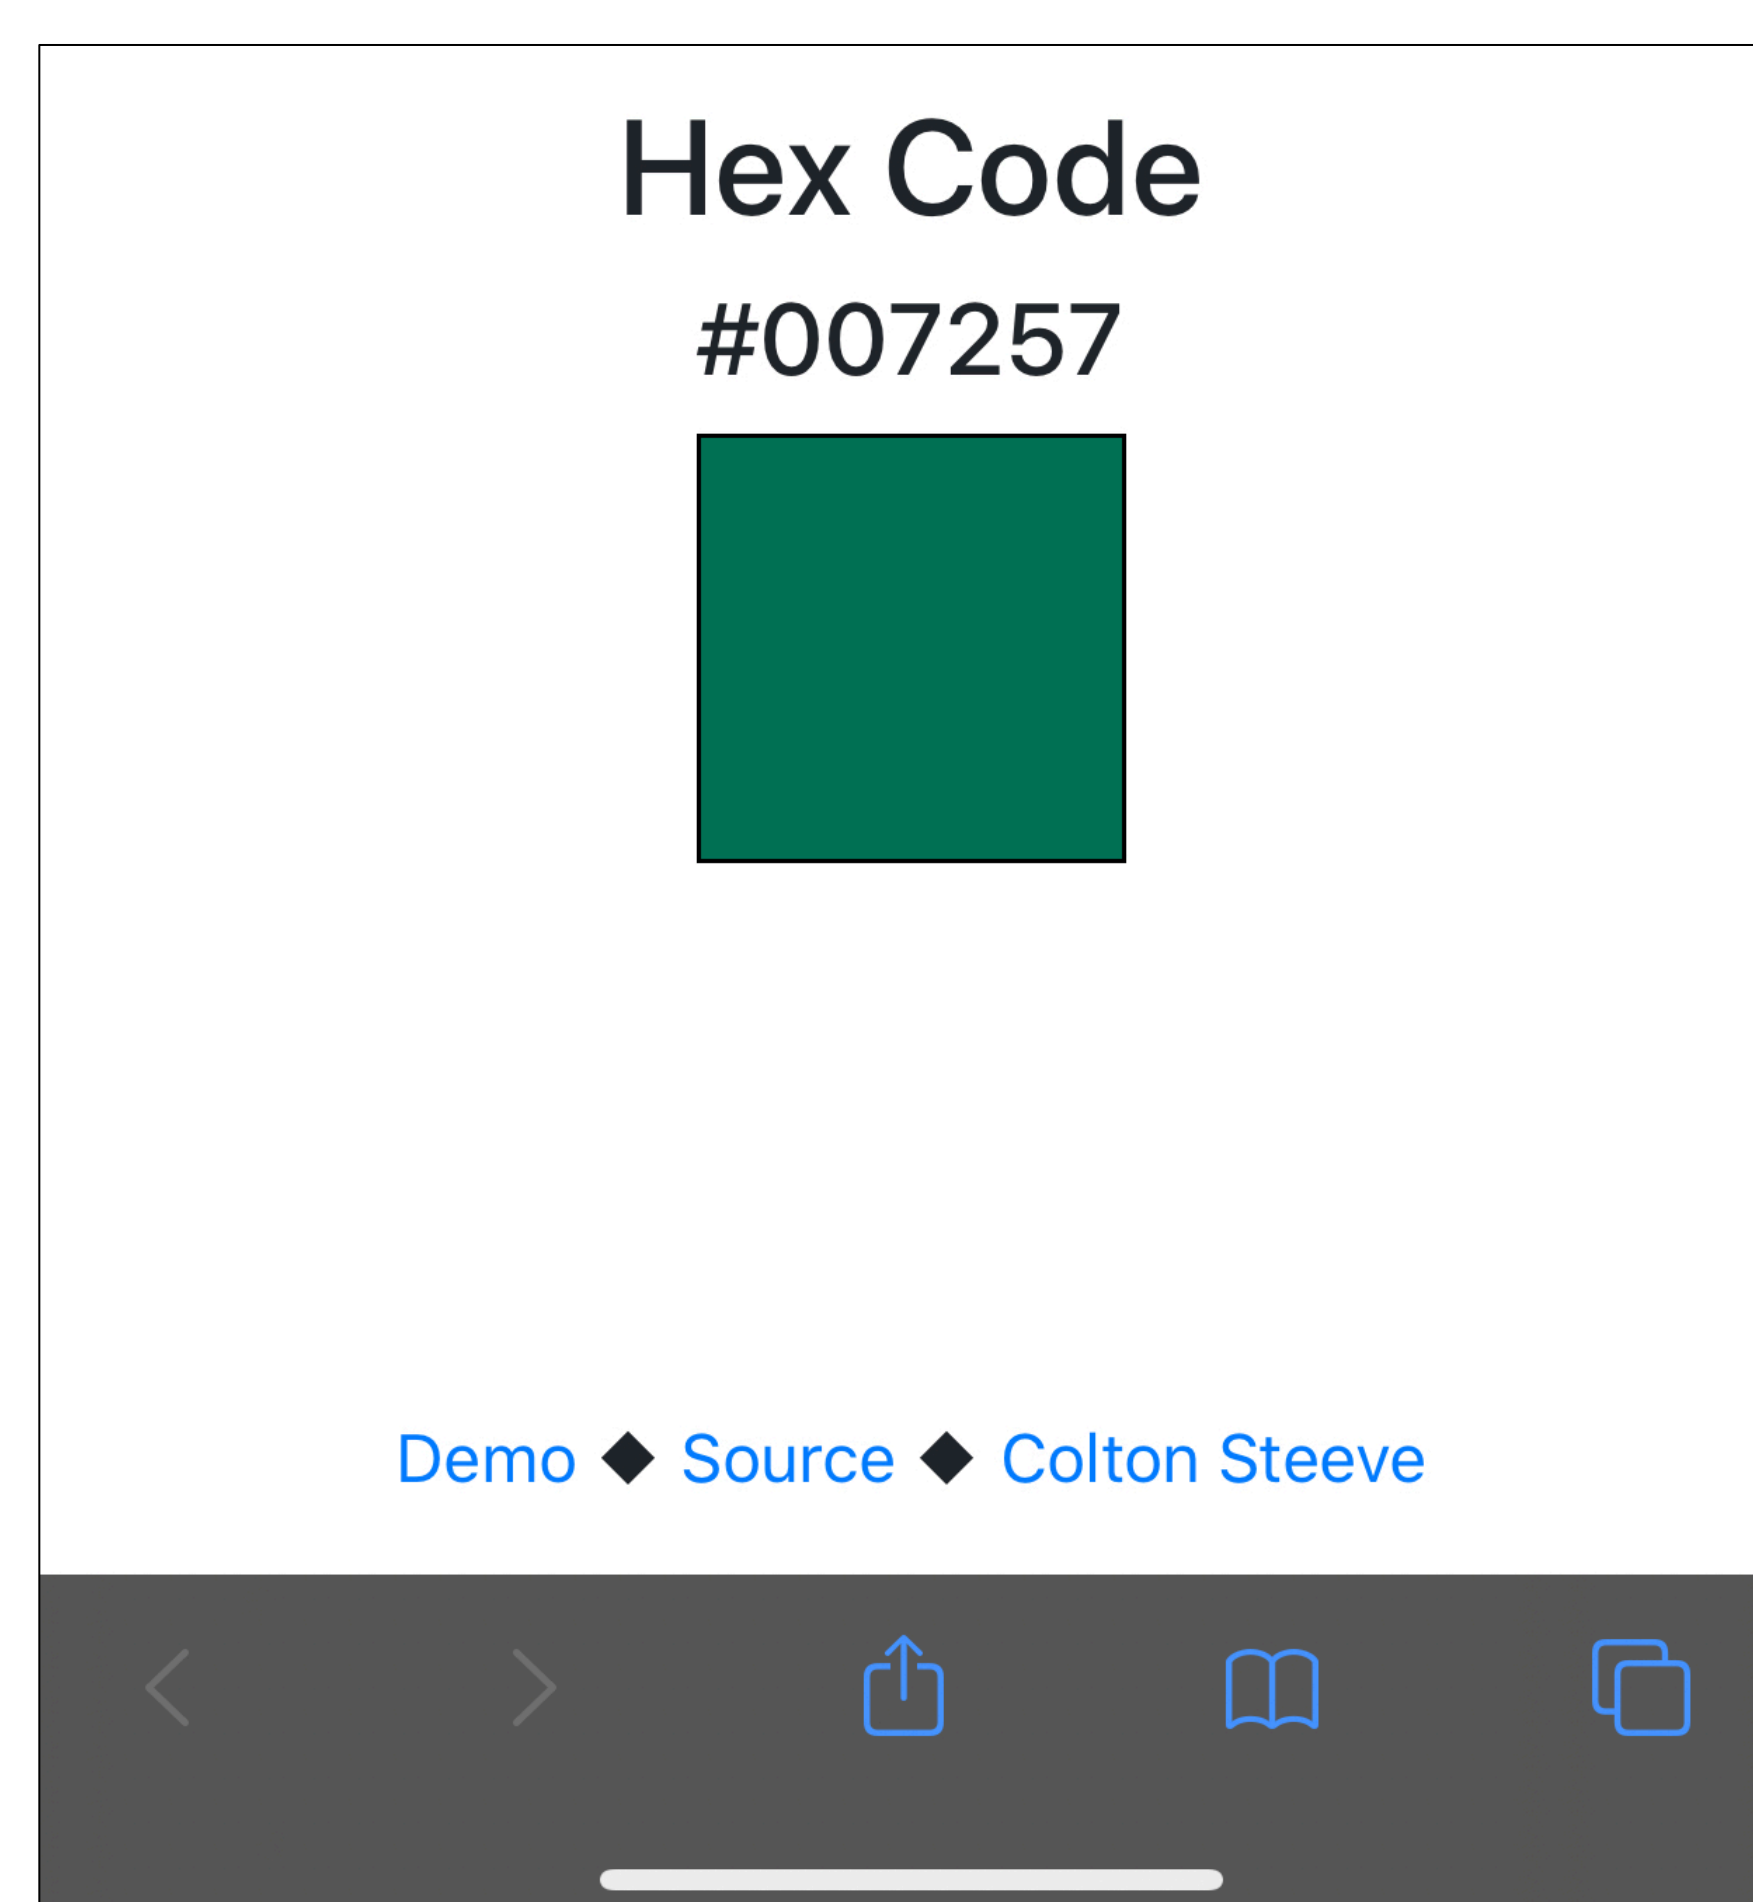

I changed the formatting, added the hex code of the selected color, added a service worker, icons, and a web manifest.

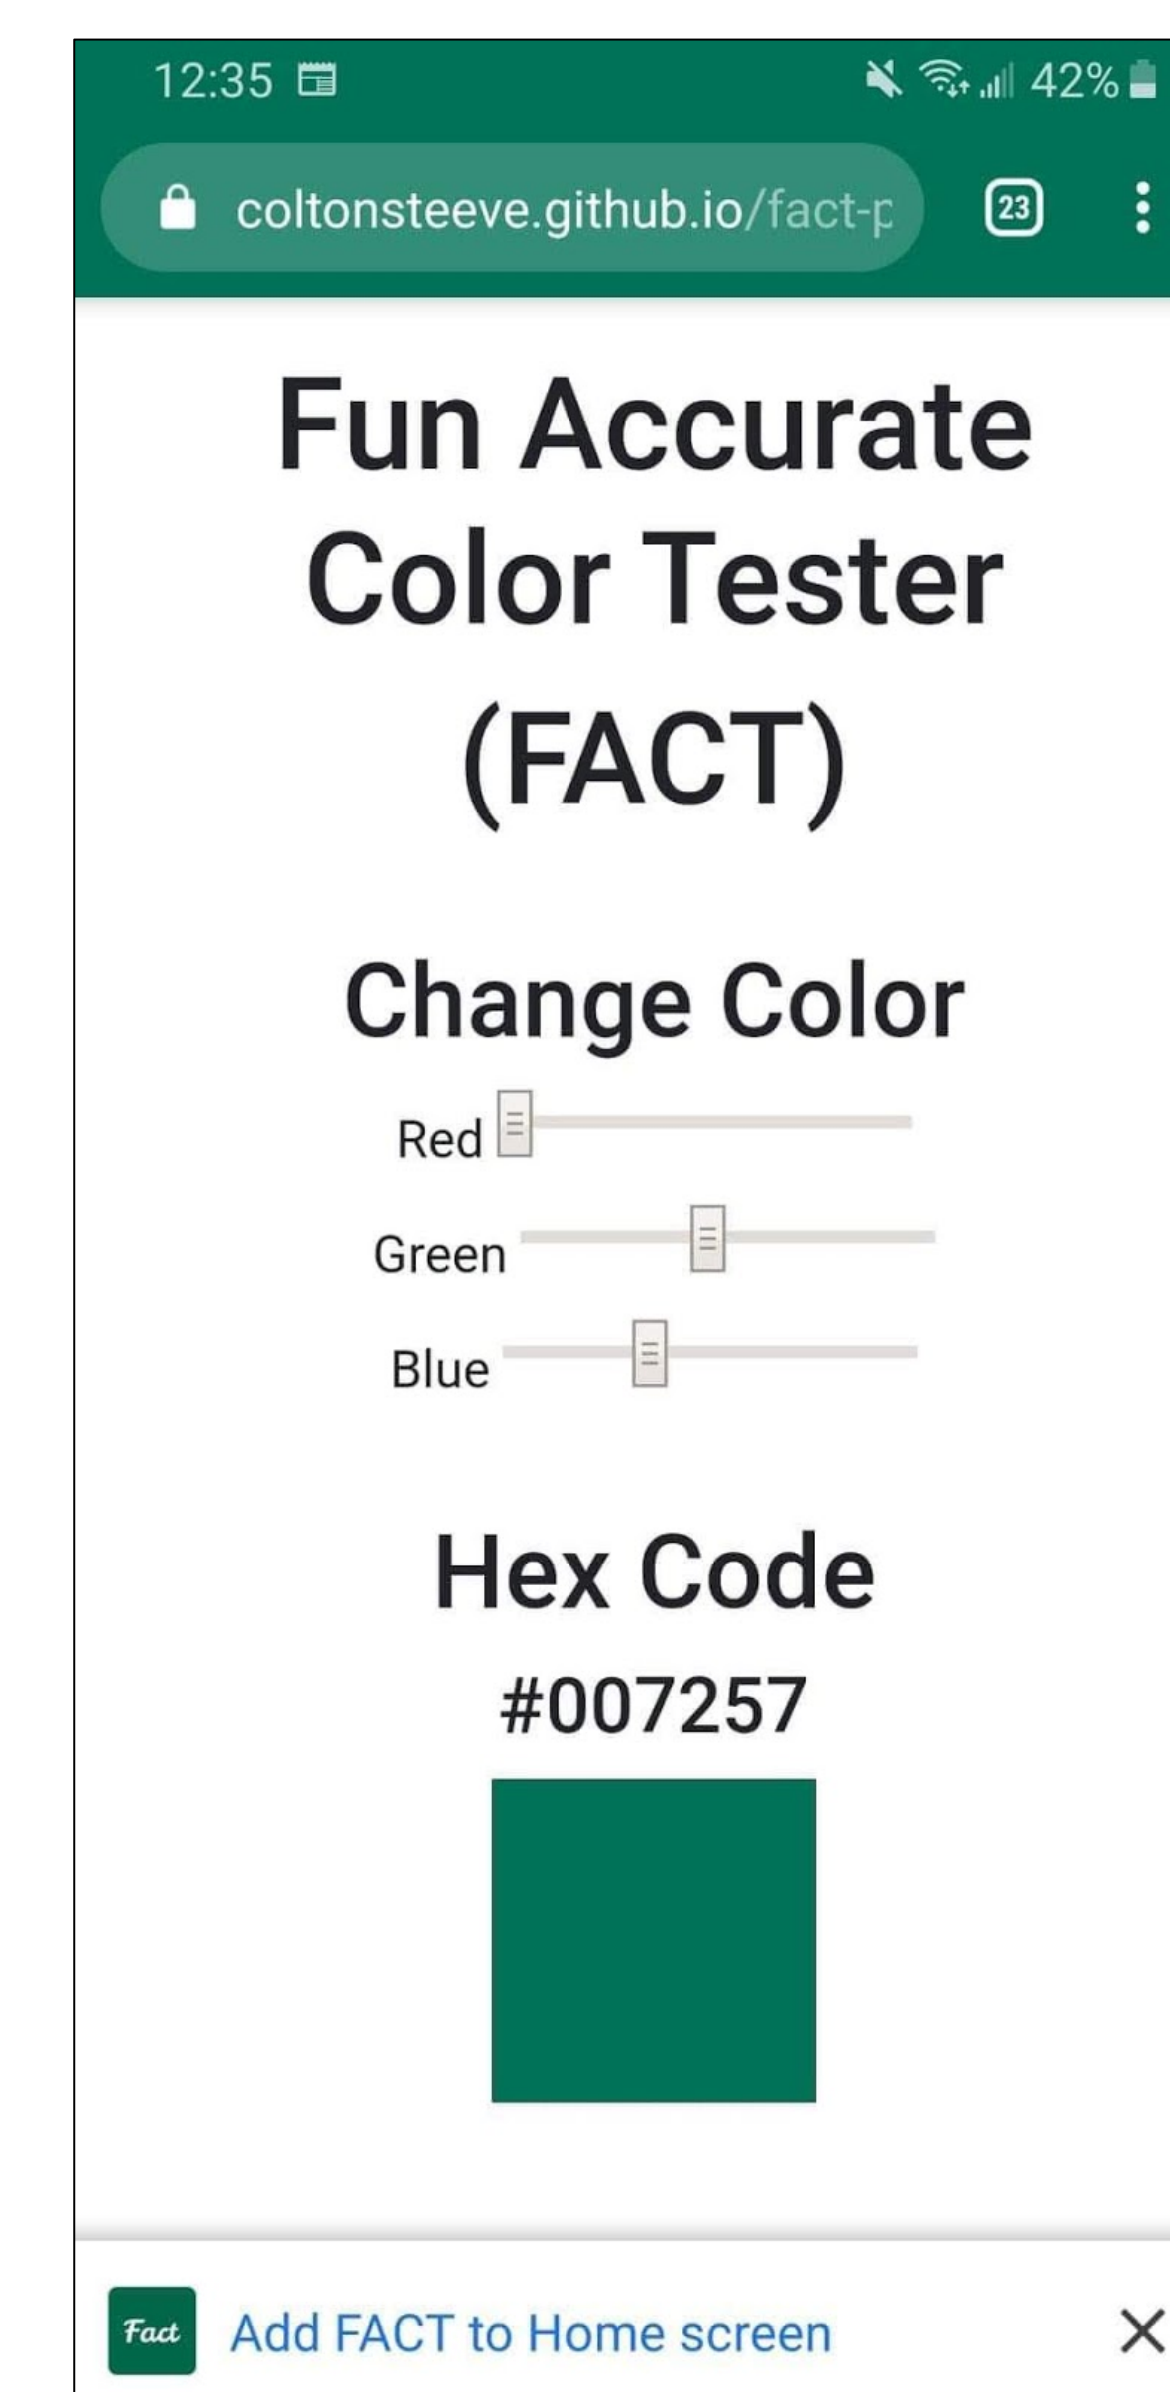

The service worker caches fonts, styles, static assets, and images. It also makes the installation work.

The web manifest holds information such as app name, display type, and references to the icons.

iPhone Installation

Android Installation

Final Version

